The Schizophrenia Courses that we have been holding over the last twenty three years are addressed to mental health care professionals. Their objective is still to facilitate the relationship and knowledge between professionals involved in and interested in better understanding and helping these patients.

The Spanish and foreign professors who have been attending our Courses form a part of the most innovating and outstanding national and international vanguard in this field, both due to their practice involvement in new and more extensive pathways of investigation and treatment for these patients as well as their interest in spreading and sharing their experiences and knowledge with us.

The Schizophrenia Course that we hold every year aims to be a place where we can participate, inform, learn, teach, and think about it, a place in which we can communicate and a forum of motivation, interest and enthusiasm for more global views of these problems and more complete and effective therapeutic programs.

This year we continue with the possibility of Poster presentations in the course and thus make the works and research of merit in this field of the professionals from different sites known and we will also extend the intensive, reduced and practical Workshops, as many of those attending have been requested in the evaluation sheets we hand out at the end of the Courses.

We usually hold it in the Hotel Meliá Castilla, because for all of us, the site is a comfortable and convenient site, with hotel services and spaces that will provide us with greater possibilities and facilities to obtain, beyond the Course program, the objectives of our meeting.

SPEAKERS

Prof. Ivan Urlić, M.D., Ph. D. is neuropsychiatrist, psychoanalytical psychotherapist and group analyst. As professor of psychiatry and psychological medicine he teaches on Medical School and the Academy of Arts of the University of Split, Croatia, as well as internationally. He is founder member of IGA Zagreb and IGA Bologna (Italy), where he is training group analyst and supervisor. He was chairperson of EGATIN, and Board member of GASi (London). In 2004 he was Foulkes lecturer. He was secretary and board member of IAGP, Board member of ISPS Int. and is co-founder and deputy president of the ISPS Croatia. Now he is president of the Dalmatian branch of the Academy of the Medical Sciences of Croatia. His special interests: Group psychotherapy for patients suffering from psychosis, and PTSD. He founded Regional Center for Psychotrauma for Dalmatia (Croatia), for treatment of war veterans and their family members. He published many papers and chapters in books, and is with M.Berger and A. Berman co-author of the book: "Victimhood, Vengefulness, and the Culture of Forgiveness". He co-authored / co-edited book with M.González de Chávez on "Group Therapy for Psychoses".

Prof. David Kennard is a retired clinical psychologist and group analyst who has worked in therapeutic communities for acute psychiatric admissions and for drug rehabilitation, in a high security mental hospital and in psychotherapy and counselling services. Between 1992-2004 he was Head of Psychological Therapy at The Retreat in York where he was involved in the development of a psychosis rehabilitation service. He has had a career long interest in therapeutic communities and was involved in the development of the Association of Therapeutic Communities from its inception in 1972. In 1983 he published An Introduction to Therapeutic Communities (2nd ed.1998) and from 1992-8 was editor of the journal Therapeutic Communities. His involvement in psychosis rehabilitation at The Retreat led to joining ISPS (International Society for Psychological and Social Approaches to Psychosis) and he was chair of ISPS-UK from 2004-9. Other books he has co-authored/co-edited include A Workbook of Group Analytic Interventions (1993) with Jeff Roberts and David Winter, Experiences of Mental Health Inpatient Care (2007) with Mark Hardcastle, Lenny Fagin and Sheila Grandison, and Staff Support Groups in the Helping Professions (2009) with Phil Hartley.

Prof. Val Jackson is a systemic psychotherapist and Open Dialogue trainer having successfully completed a 3 year training programme run by Open Dialogue UK. She worked for many years in an early intervention service for psychosis in Leeds, UK working alongside families. She is also a founder member, tutor and trainer on the Peer-supported Open Dialogue course currently being run in the UK, the 5th cohort of 74 students graduating a few weeks ago. She is passionate about giving a voice to those affected by psychotic experiences, particularly family members and is constantly learning something new from them. This may be because her aunt lived and died in a psychiatric institution and was never talked about until after Val's parents died. Cycling and swimming keep her physically active in addition to her 7 grandchildren.

Prof. Tania Lecomte, Ph.D., is a full professor in the Department of Psychology at the Université de Montréal, and senior researcher at the Research Center of the Mental Health University Institute of Montreal. Her current work focuses on the recovery of people with severe mental illness. She is interested, for example, in assessing needs, self-esteem and social functioning, cognitive behavioural therapy for psychosis, first episodes of psychosis, and the vocational integration of people with a mental disorder, as well as the study of comorbid presentations (psychosis and other disorders such as substance abuse or social anxiety). Dr. Lecomte has directed and developed group manuals for people with mental illness (such as: I am super on self-esteem, CBT for psychosis, WITH-CBT for parents of people with psychosis and CBT for supported employment). She has benefited from several research grants at the national level (Canada) and several publications with peer committees (more than 120) have resulted from her work. She also co-edited the Psychiatric Rehabilitation Handbook (in French), published in 2004, and updated in 2012 by Les Presses de l'Université du Québec and she wrote the book Group CBT for psychosis published by Oxford Press in 2016.

Prof. Chyrell D. Bellamy, PhD, MSW is an Associate Professor of Yale School of Medicine's Department of Psychiatry, Program for Recovery and Community Health (PRCH) and serves as the Director of Peer Services/ Research. Dr. Bellamy is also the Acting Director of the Office of Recovery Community Affairs, appointed by the Commissioner of the Department of Mental Health and Addictions Services. She has experience as a frontline service provider, community educator and organizer, community and academic researcher, and as a person in recovery. Her expertise includes developing and conducting community-based research initiatives; involving and partnering with community, specifically with people living with mental illness, addictions, trauma, and HIV. Her research examines sociocultural experiences and pathways to recovery in prevention and treatment. She currently has a NIH R34 award: “Peer Wellness Enhancement for Patients with Serious Mental Illness and High Medical Costs. Dr. Bellamy received her PhD in the Joint program in Social Work and Social Psychology from the University of Michigan and her MSW and BA from Rutgers University. Followed by a Post-Doctoral Fellowship at the Center for Mental Health and Criminal Justice Research at Rutgers University. In her capacity as Director of Peer Services and Research she provides instruction on peer curricula development and training based on her research and practice experience with peer employees since 1993, training of peers to conduct research, and research and evaluation on the effectiveness of peer support.

Prof. Ignacio García Cabeza is a PhD in Medicine, Staff member of Psychiatry of the HGU Gregorio Marañón and Associate Professor of the Complutense University of Madrid. Since starting his training in Psychiatry in the Hospital Gregorio Marañón, his main interest has been clinical care and research with psychotic patients. Since then, he has actively participating the combined therapy programs for psychosis, with special emphasis on group interventions, which has lead to the organization of different teaching activities, above all in the International Congress of the ISPS (where he has been a member of the Organization and Scientific Committee). He was a coordinator of the Spanish group of that society. Currently, he is heading a program of comprehensive care to patients diagnosed of psychosis with low adherence to conventional treatment, combining this with his work in the Acute Unit, his principal care activity.
